Live Online Programme on

Strategic Leadership for Senior Bankers

Coordinator
Dr Kaushik Mukerjee

National Institute of Bank Management

Background

The role of leaders is a key factor that drives the success of banks. In recent times, several major changes in the macro-environment coupled with increased focus on digitalization and shifting customer preferences calls for a strategic role of leaders in the banks. Further, the impact of non-banking finance companies and financial technology firms on financial services have resulted in a challenge for the commercial banks. Also, the high growth opportunities in the financial services sector means that leaders with skills and knowledge of bank governance, strategy, customer orientation, risk governance, preventive vigilance, and change management can play a strategic role in the banks.

This live online programme will feature interactive sessions with faculty and industry experts to help participants understand, absorb and interpret the strategic issues that will impact the performance of banks in times to come.
